SEYMOUR, INDIANA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1912.

PRICE TWO CENTS

LITTLE DAMAGE IS DONE TO PROPERTY

Queer Costumes Were Seen Among The Crowd of Merry-makers on the Streets Thursday Night.

FEW HIGHWAYS OBSTRUCTED

Special Police Were on Duty But Had no Difficulty in Handling the Crowd—No Arrests Made.

The ghosts and goblins were out in large numbers last night and for several hours during the evening Halloween merry-makers promenaded the streets in masks and costumes of various kinds. The crowds of young people began to assemble about 7 o'clock and for over two hours paraded back and forth upon the streets. Some of the costumes were very unique representing witches, clowns and other characters.

While a large number of people enjoyed the festivities of Halloween, the outbreak of fun manifested itself in an innocent way and there were no disturbances of any importance during the evening. There was probably less property destroyed here last night than upon any Halloween for years. The police, however, were ready to answer any calls which might be reported, and besides the regular police five extra officers were on duty in various parts of the city. A few minor losses were reported but in most cases where property was carried away it was later found and restored to the owners. Very little damage was done to fences or buildings in the city.

The only excitement of any kind on the streets last night was some trouble between two boys who were masked. Some words were passed between them and the argument was becoming heated when one of the officers came up and separated them and sent them both home.

Several roads in the county were obstructed and a few fences along the highway were removed but no one was injured by any of the obstructions.

Upon Halloween there are always many social affairs of various kinds but the number last night was unusually large. Most of the socials and parties were in keeping with the Halloween.

DROP PREDICTED

Weather Bureau Forecasts a Low Temperature Tonight.

Seymour will experience some real winter weather, according to the prediction of the weather bureau today. The forecast is given that there will be a decided drop in temperature tonight with the possibility of a freeze.

The government thermometer registered forty degrees today. There was a decided change in the temperature after the rain last night and a still further drop of the mercury is predicted.

CHAUTAUQUA MEETING

Stockholders Are Urged to be Present to Complete Organization.

A chautauqua meeting will be held at the library at 8 o'clock this evening and all stockholders are urged to be present as the organization of the association will be completed. Considerable progress has been made during the past week and the reports of the committee securing the stock will be given. Several matters of importance will come before the meeting tonight and all persons who have subscribed stock are especially urged to be present.

The interest in the chautauqua movement continues to increase. The prospects are very bright for a successful chautauqua here next summer. The program which has been selected is satisfactory and since the various lecturers and concerts were announced a number of people have volunteered to assist in order that the entertainment might be given. A program of this character could not be heard in Seymour for the price of a chautauqua ticket unless the talent was obtained as a part of the chautauqua course. This feature is appreciated by persons interested in high class entertainment and are very anxious that the final contract be closed and the tickets for the chautauqua be placed on sale this fall.

ELECTION COMMISSIONERS

Will Distribute Ballots and Supplies to Inspectors Saturday.

The board of election commissioners met at Brownstown today to prepare the ballots and other supplies for distribution among the inspectors. The inspectors will meet at Brownstown Saturday when the distribution will be made. Several additional supplies will be given this year and the commissioners had quite a task before them in sorting them out.

The ballots for every precinct were counted, the packages sealed and the seals will not be broken until the election boards meet on the morning of Nov. 5. The law provides that each precinct shall receive twice as many ballots as there are voters. This provision is made in order to avoid a possible shortage in case there be a larger number of voters. The law also provides what supplies shall be given each precinct.

REPUBLICAN SPEAKINGS

Last Meeting of Campaign Monday Night.

The republicans will close their campaign in this city Monday night with a big mass meeting at the Majestic theatre. The speakers will be Judge O. H. Montgomery and Judge John M. Lewis, of this city. The republicans are making arrangements to accommodate a large number of people at this meeting as it will be the last one of the campaign and will be held the evening before the election.

Judge Montgomery and Judge Lewis are both well known political speakers and their addresses upon the political issues of this campaign will be worth hearing. They have had a number of speeches throughout the county during the past few weeks and wherever they have held a meeting it has been very largely attended. All republicans are invited to attend this meeting and make the last one the largest of the campaign.

We will try and please you. The Day Light Store. Advertisement.

SURVEY MADE FOR INTERURBAN LINE

Surveying Party Completes Work on Proposed Route Between Indianapolis and Seymour.

EMPLOYED BY EASTERN FIRM

Work Has Been Completed and a Report Will Be Made Soon—Names of Promoters Not Given.

The mystery surrounding the surveying party that has been working near here for several days has been solved. The surveyors began work some time ago and made a survey from Indianapolis to this city. They worked quietly, gave out very little information and kept the people along the route guessing. It has been reported that they were making the survey for almost everything from a pipe line to a canal.

While nothing definite was known about the party, it was generally believed that the men were making a preliminary survey for an interurban line from Seymour to Indianapolis, and this supposition proved to be correct according to a statement of Oliver Hickam, one of the surveyors. The work was completed Thursday and the surveyors returned to Indianapolis.

While it is known that the survey was made for a proposed interurban line, nothing definite is known about the proposed road as the surveyors received instructions to do the work and were not given any other information. It is known, however, that an eastern firm would like to have a railroad from Indianapolis to Seymour and with this in mind employed the firm of White & Weimer to make the survey. The surveying contractors are located in Pittsburgh and the work was done by their employees and under their direction. Mr. Hickam said that the firm for which he was working only had the contract for the survey and that as soon as the work was completed and all the data obtained a report would be made to the capitalist. Whether a parallel road is to be built from Seymour to Indianapolis will of course depend very largely upon this report together with other information regarding the territory through which the proposed road would pass.

It is rumored that the owners of the Indianapolis and Louisville Traction Company or of the Louisville and Northern Railway and Lighting Company are back of the survey. It is known that these two companies would like to make satisfactory arrangements with the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Company to handle freight from this city to Indianapolis. It is also understood that the I. C. & S. Traction Company does not desire to make a specialty of freight shipments and for this reason the roads to the south have had some difficulty in making satisfactory arrangements. It is reported that one of the roads to the south, and probably both of them, would like to have a road from Seymour to Indianapolis under their control so that they could make satisfactory arrangements for handling freight which was shipped from Louisville and other points along their road. The freight question has been before the I. C. & S. for some time, and only a few weeks ago the matter was taken up by the Louisville Board of Trade. It was stated at that time that the owners of the I. C. & S. would be willing to make satisfactory arrangements and that the road would assist in taking care of all the freight shipments of the I. C. & S.

PUBLIC DRINKING CUP

On Trains and At Depots Have Been Abolished in U. S.

Secretary of the Treasury MacVeagh, with one swoop, yesterday abolished the time-honored public drinking cup from railroad cars, vessels and other conveyances operated in interstate traffic and from depots and waiting rooms of common carriers.

The railroads and interurbans through Seymour abolished the public drinking cup some time ago.

This sweeping order against "any drinking cup, glass or vessel for common use," effective immediately, is in the interest of the nation's health, and was the direct result of an investigation by the United States public health service, a branch of the treasury department, which holds the drinking cup to be a menace as a carrier of disease.

A drinking cup, it is said, may contain thousands of bacteria from disease infected persons.

Mr. MacVeagh's action constituted an amendment to the interstate quarantine regulations.

Sherman Allen, assistant secretary of the treasury, stirred by the revelations of the public health service and the fact that twenty-six states already have laws forbidding the use of the common drinking cup, recommended the action to Mr. MacVeagh, and was sustained by the solicitor of the treasury department as to the secretary's legal power to issue the order.

Treasury officials recommend that travelers equip themselves with a clean sheet of white paper which, by adroit folding, can be turned into a drinking cup. The "soldier's cap" of childhood days, will easily serve the purpose.

Common carriers may now provide drinking cups only in case they are thoroughly cleansed by washing in boiling water after use by each individual.

BARNES MAY DEFEND

The Alleged Murderers of the McQuaid Brothers.

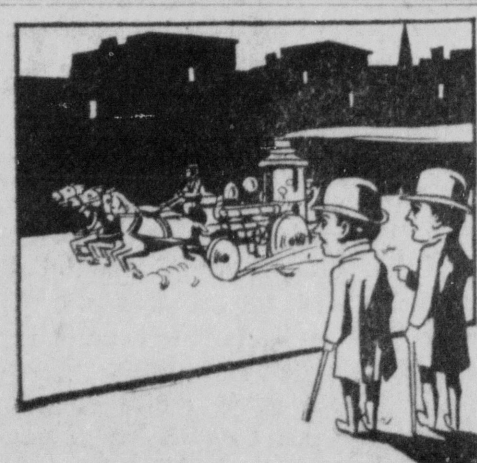

Seba A. Barnes of this city may defend the three men arrested at North Vernon upon the charge of murdering the McQuaid brothers on October 7.

The North Vernon Sun says: So far the men have not secured counsel but it is likely that an Indianapolis firm will take the cases. It is not believed the cases will come to trial here because of the feeling aroused over the murder, but regardless of that, they could receive a fair trial in this county as anywhere in the state.

While an Indianapolis firm may be employed it has leaked out that Seba Barnes, of Seymour, will be the leading counsel for the men when they are finally brought to trial.

DEFEATS OF TURKS MAY END THE WAR

Bulgarian Troops Delivered Stubborn Attacks Along The Line of The Sultan's Army.

MANY KILLED AND WOUNDED

European Governments Discuss Measures to Prevent Possible Massacres at Constantinople.

Sofia, November 1.—Details of the rout of the immense Turkish army by the Bulgarians show that the Bulgarian forces were numerically far inferior. The Turkish army is reported to have aggregated 200,000 men.

The fight opened with the discovery by the Turks of a number of Bulgarian cavalry scouts. The Turks drew in their outposts, and these were closely followed by lines of Bulgarian skirmishers, who were succeeded by the main Bulgarian army in fighting formation.

The battle, which was destined to last several days and result in the defeat of the Turks, was soon in progress all along the line. The Bulgarian troops repeatedly delivered fierce attacks, sometimes at one point, sometimes at another along the Turkish line extending from Lule Burgas to Serai.

The Turkish troops offered a stubborn and desperate resistance but were unable to withstand the onslaught of the impetuous Bulgarians, and finally they turned and fled in great disorder toward Teherlu in the south.

The losses of the Ottoman army are reported to have been enormous in dead, wounded and prisoners as well as ammunition and other supplies.

The European governments have not yet agreed whether to intervene in the Balkan war or to offer mediation at the present moment or after the expected battle at Tchatalja, twenty-five miles from Constantinople. They have, however, decided not to wait for Turkey to take the initiative in asking for mediation.

The meeting of the European ambassadors at Constantinople last evening discussed exclusively the measures to be taken for the prevention of possible massacres.

ORDERED CLOSED

Applicants for U. S. Army Will Not be Enlisted Here.

The recruiting station which was established here several months ago has been closed. The station is open here several months each year, but the number of applicants has been unusually small this fall. The officers say that work is too plentiful around Seymour and when that condition exists very few men enlist. Recruiting Officer Charles Williamson left for Louisville Thursday. This territory will be taken care of by the station at Louisville or Indianapolis.

The new term of enlistment as changed by a recent act of congress became effective Thursday.

As the law stands a soldier enlists for a period of seven years, but after he has served three years he may make his application for transfer to the reserves, or, after serving four years, he will be transferred to the reserves, unless he makes application to be discharged or to remain with his organization. If he should choose the former, he will be granted a discharge, but may re-enlist for any other organization he elects.

Any soldier who, after serving four years, does not desire his discharge, or who does not care to serve the full seven years with his regiment, will be transferred to the reserves and will be at liberty to go anywhere he pleases, but is required to keep the department advised of his address. He can engage in any occupation he desires. He has no military duties to perform, but is simply subject to call in case of actual or threatened hostilities.

TURKS FLEE IN FEARFUL PANIC

Bulgars Have Put Moslem Army to Rout.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS MENACED

With Only a Disorganized and Fear-Stricken Army Between the Bulgars and Their Goal, Ferdinand's Forces Are Drawing Their Lines Constantly Nearer the Capital of the Ottoman Empire.

Athens, Nov. 1.—The Greek fleet in the Aegean sea has occupied Thasos and Imbros, Turkish islands in the Aegean sea.

Constantinople, Nov. 1.—The cabinet is in session. It is believed to be discussing the question of suing for peace. It is known that grave news has been received from the front. It is rumored that Nazim Pasha, the Turkish war minister, has either been shot or taken prisoner.

London, Nov. 1.—Reports of a great victory won over the Turks by the Bulgarians are confirmed by dispatches received here from Sofia. The Turks, with 150,000 men stretched out in a line a little more than thirty miles long, in defense of the approaches to Constantinople, were driven from their fortified positions by considerably smaller forces of Bulgarians and are retreating in panic southward. The Bulgarians are in pursuit. This seems to indicate that the lines which the Bulgarians are drawing about Constantinople are being brought materially nearer the capital, with only a disorganized and fear-stricken army between the Bulgars and their goal.

The Ottoman losses in killed, wounded and prisoners were enormous. Many guns and flags and large quantities of ammunition and other equipment were captured. Bulgarian advances state that the village of Alvali, near Lule Burgas, and Maras, near Adrianople, were burned by the Turks and all Christians massacred.

The dispatches are not so definite or so well confirmed with regard to the fighting about Adrianople. One report sent to a news agency states that there was a general assault on Adrianople and following this the Turks raised the white flag in the city. This report was not confirmed. Vienna hears that the fighting about Adrianople is continuing desperately and that the fate of the city soon will be decided.

A dispatch received at Vienna from the Montenegrin frontier states that King Nicholas's troops lost 300 killed and wounded in an attempt to rush the fortifications at Tarakasch. The Turks, the dispatch adds, still hold the town which has been the scene of so many engagements in the past few days.

Belgrade has heard that the Servians have captured Prizrend and Ipoken Monastir. Details are not given in the dispatches.

Servian reports place the Turkish losses in recent Turkish-Servian battles at a high figure. According to the Servians the Turks lost 16,000 in killed and wounded in the battle at Koumanovo, while the Servians lost 400 killed and 2,000 wounded.

Five thousand Turks are said to have been in the defense of Velles, which the Servians captured.

Athens is awaiting news of the surrender of Salonika and Janina, where the Greeks do not expect serious resistance. The Greeks look for severe fighting at Monastir, against which another Greek army is now advancing.

Turkey Talking Terms.

Constantinople, Nov. 1.—Nouragundhan Effendi, the Turkish minister of foreign affairs, is quoted as having replied to a joint note from the ambassadors as to whether intervention by the powers would be acceptable, that Turkey was willing to accept the good offices of the powers immediately, if offered unanimously, on the basis of giving adequate guarantees for reforms, but that the integrity of the Turkish empire must be respected. Otherwise, the minister declared, Turkey would fight to a finish.

NEW YORKERS GO WILD FOR GOVERNOR WILSON

Madison Square Garden Crowd Cheers Over an Hour.

New York, Nov. 1.—Last night they broke all records in Madison Square Garden for Woodrow Wilson. More people than had ever entered the place at one time cheered him for sixty-four minutes, which was about a half minute longer than that accorded to William Jennings Bryan in 1898.

From the instant that Oscar Underwood shut off his speech at 9:10 with "I will now make way for the next president of the United States," the great throng cheered until the clock had gone well past 10:14, and then they evinced a readiness to start it all over again at the first chance, although it did not seem as if human throats could stand a greater strain than that imposed by the hour and four minutes just passed.

Disinterested spectators pronounced the rally the greatest in the Garden's history.

Charles F. Murphy stood on his feet for a half hour or more waving an American flag, and not far away from him were Empire State Democrats who are bitterly opposed to him, waving with just as much vigor. Many leaders and reformers stood shoulder to shoulder, and whooped it up with never a thought of local issues. Officials of all kinds of reform societies and members of clubs they have denounced were in the same groups. Men who fought Governor Wilson for the nomination with personal bitterness, like Colonel George Harvey, were box-holders and showed all the enthusiasm in the world. The banker, the merchant, the lawyer, doctor, as well as the man who works by the day, were aligned together and helped with equal strength of lungs.

Sixteen thousand persons were jammed into the big garden. The meeting was under the auspices of the Business Men's League of the United States. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and her two daughters occupied a box.

BEARS IN FIGHT TO DEATH

Wyoming Hunter Tells How He Started Fierce Fight Between Two Enormous Grizzlies.

A Wyoming man gives a graphic account of a battle to the death between two bears, which a shot from his rifle had caused to attack each other. "I was out after elk and discovered the two bears a long way off, digging in rotten down timber for grubs. I dismounted from my pony, and, making a wide detour, came up behind the bears and got within easy range without being winded or discovered by them. Taking good aim at one of the grizzlies I fired. The bullet tumbled him over, but he was on his feet again almost immediately.

"The other bear had stopped its grubbing when this one fell and turned and stared at it in surprise. The wounded bear glared at its companion a moment and then apparently made up its mind that its companion had knocked it down, for it pitched into that bear with a ferocity that plainly meant business, and instantly a battle was on. The bears clinched and bit and raked one another with their claws. In a very short time their tough hides were hanging in strips on their huge bodies and the bears were drenched with blood. I never saw nor expect again to see such a sight. It was fearful. The grizzlies fought for at least ten minutes, and then the one I had shot failed to get up after being hurled to the ground by its antagonist, and the latter stood over its prostrate foe and tore him with his paws until it had disemboweled him.

"Then the victor, growling and gnashing its teeth, moved away a few steps, staggered like a drunken person and fell to the ground. I tried to get up, but could not. I crept cautiously to the spot, fearing that the bear might still have enough vitality to make it lively when it discovered me, but my caution was not called for. The grizzly was as dead as his rival. Those two bears were the most prodigious specimens of their kind I had ever seen, but they were literally torn to pieces. There was not a whole piece of skin or flesh on either of them as big as my hat."

He Cannot Forget.

A musician seated far out on a windswept pier at Atlantic City, was telling stories about composers.

"Dr. Richard Strauss," he said, "visited America before he achieved world fame, and the sapient, cock-sure critics of New York were very hard on him. In fact, they were so hard on him that Dr. Strauss had not yet either forgotten or forgiven them. The wound is still raw. It still bleeds."

The musician regarding with an absent smile the slow, lazy graceful dives of a school of porpoises in the tumbling water, continued:

"I had the honor last year of attending one of Dr. Strauss' rehearsals in Munich. It was a new symphony, very beautiful, but very bizarre. In the middle of it the composer rapped his desk impatiently and called to the double bassoon:

"Why don't you play the F sharp that is marked?"

"The bassoon, a bullheaded sort of fellow, answered:

"Because it would sound wrong, that is why."

"Dr. Strauss gave a harsh laugh and shouted:

"Himmel! Are you a New York critic in disguise?" — Washington Star.

HOCKIN TIPPED OFF M'NAMARA

Gave Detective Burns His Initial Clues.

BADOLF GIVES TESTIMONY

Assistant Commissioner of National Erectors' Association Tells Jury in Dynamite Cases That Assistant Secretary of the Iron Workers' Union Became Panic-Stricken Following Times Explosion, and "Told."

Indianapolis, Nov. 1.—It was Herbert S. Hockin who first gave the tip that led to the arrest of the McNamaras and McManigal, according to testimony given in the dynamite cases in the federal court by J. A. G. Badorf, assistant commissioner of the National Erectors' association, and this was shortly after the explosion of the Los Angeles Times building. That event seems to have frightened Hockin, according to Badorf, and he gave Detective Burns the tip that ultimately led to the arrest and later to the indictments of the men now on trial.

The witness said that in the early part of 1912 he met Hockin in one of the corridors of the federal building, and in the course of their conversation he told Hockin he had been looking for him for some time, as he had something he wished to talk to him about. The time given by Badorf as the date of this conversation was later than the time given by Drew and Foster, as that when they were dealing with Hockin.

"When was it you got in touch with L. L. Jewell of the McClintick-Marshall company?" Badorf says he asked Hockin.

The latter made no direct reply, but merely smiled, according to Badorf.

Badorf says he then called his attention to the finding of the nitroglycerin at Rochester and asked Hockin what time that was, and Hockin replied it was in August, 1910.

The witness said he then asked Hockin when he first got in touch with Burns, and Hockin asked on what date the Los Angeles Times explosion had occurred. Badorf said he told him it was on Oct. 1, 1909, and that Hockin then replied that he had got in touch with Burns a few weeks after that date.

"I think you are a fool to give all your information to Burns and let him build up a reputation on information you have been giving him," Badorf said he told Hockin. "If you want your information to be of any value to yourself, you ought to see Mr. Miller."

"I may be guilty, but I'll never go on the witness stand. My life would not be worth three whoops if I went on the stand," is the reply Badorf says Hockin made to him.

He testified concerning some of the explosions which he had investigated personally. He identified parts of a suitcase, parts of an alarm clock and pieces of a battery which he had found at the scene of the explosion at a viaduct in New York city, March 23, 1910. These he and others, he said, had dug out of the ground at the place where the shot went off.

PLEA OF SISTER

Goes Far Toward Saving Women From Long Imprisonment.

Marion, Ind., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Alice Rickard and Mrs. Viola J. Hoffbauer, both of Indianapolis, received sentences of from two to fourteen years' imprisonment on pleas of guilty to forgery. Sentence was suspended by the circuit court during their good behavior.

The act of forgery was committed in the preparing and filing for probate of a will alleged to be that of their aunt, Mrs. Marian Miller, of Point Isabel, Grant county. Mrs. Hoffman said she had been led into preparing the will and signing the names of fictitious witnesses through bad advice and her lack of knowledge of the law in such affairs. Mrs. Rickard's part in the matter was in signing the name of a fictitious witness, and representing herself to be the witness when the will was admitted to probate.

Mrs. Marian Gerhardt, also of Indianapolis, and sister of Mrs. Rickard and Mrs. Hoffbauer, and who was cut out of participation in her aunt's estate by the forged will, proved to be a strong factor in saving her sisters from imprisonment. She appeared before Judge Paulus, who pronounced the suspended sentence, and asked that she receive sentence to serve double time for both her sisters, if there should be sentence, since they both had families of children depending on their care. The two sisters were overcome by Mrs. Gerhardt's appeal.

Two Brothers in Trouble.

Shelbyville, Ind., Nov. 1.—Robert Bradley Harp, aged eighteen, of Corbin, Ky., was sentenced to the Indiana reformatory for from two to fourteen years for forgery, and his brother, Charles Elmer Harp, aged twenty-three, will be tried on the same charge. The latter, it is charged, violated his parole by forgery operations in Kentucky and then fled to Indiana. He had served one year of the ten years' sentence for killing a negro, and was paroled from the Kentucky prison at Frankfort.

NEWTON GIRL

Pale, Run-down, Anaemic—Restored to Health by Vinol.

Miss Katherine Burns of Newton, Mass., says: About six months ago I was in a run-down condition and my blood was very poor. I had taken several medicines prescribed by physicians, but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I noticed a great improvement. I have taken six bottles and I feel strong and as well as ever."—Katherine Burns.

Vinol is the greatest body builder and strength creator we know of—the curative elements of the cod's liver, aided by the blood-making, strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, restore the lacking ingredients to the blood, and the result is health, strength and vigor.

If you need building up try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Safe For a Short Distance.

A young man who is blessed with a Scotch kinsman need never fear that he will be allowed to hold too high an opinion of himself.

"What do you think of my project to study law?" asked young Witherby of his great-uncle, Robert Donaldson, a person whom he was desirous to propitiate.

"I should call it a vera harmless amusement," said Mr. Donaldson dryly after a comprehensive survey of the young man's fatuous face and gay air, "if not carried too far."

The Demons of the Swamp

are mosquitoes. As they sting they put deadly malaria germs in the blood. Then follow the icy chills and the fires of fever. The appetite flies and the strength fails; also malaria often paves the way for deadly typhoid. But electric Bitters kill and cast out the malaria germs from the blood; gives you a fine appetite and renews your strength. "After long suffering," wrote Wm. Fretwell, of Lucama, N. C., "three bottles drove all the malaria from my system, and I've had good health ever since." Best for all stomach, liver and kidney ills. 50 cents at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. The Fork.

It is about 1,900 years ago since the fork made its appearance in Europe. In 99 A. D. a son of the doge Pietro Orsola had wedded in Venice the Brizantine Princess Argila, who produced at the wedding breakfast a silver fork and gold spoon. Then the high Venetian families followed suit, and these martyrs to fashion pricked their lips with the new instrument. The fork prospered, however, and spread over Italy. In 1579 it had traveled as far as France, and in 1608 a traveler took it direct to England.

Helps a Judge in Bad Fix.

Justice Eli Cherry, of Gillis Mills, Tenn., was plainly worried. A bad sore on his leg had baffled several doctors and had long resisted all remedies. "I thought it was a cancer," he wrote. "At last I used Bucklen's Arnica Salve, and was completely cured." Cures burns, boils, ulcers, cuts, bruises and piles. 25 cents at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. Advertisement.

Anecdotes of Henner.

Mme. Steinheil's extraordinary "Memoirs" contain some bits of personal anecdote in startling contrast to the horrors she depicts of the notorious murder case, prison experience and trial. She writes of Henner, the celebrated painter of milk white auburn haired beauties unadorned.

"I never knew Henner to be embarrassed. But if he was never embarrassed he had embarrassing habits, the worst of which was that of examining the shoulders and arms of ladies in décolleté with unperturbed insistence. And not infrequently he would say: 'Allow me, just one second; I want to feel the grain, the quality of your skin.'"

"And before the victim had time to move he would press down his hairy and grimy forefinger on her bare arm, or even on her neck."

"Withdrawing his fingers, he would pass some such remark as this: 'It's really wonderful. I never grow tired of feeling flesh. It is all made of little dots—blue, white, green, pink, purple, yellow. That is what flesh is.'"

What Texans Admire

is healthy, vigorous life, according to Hugh Tallman, of San Antonio. "We find," he writes, "that Dr. King's New Life Pills surely put new life and energy into a person. Wife and I believe they are the best made." Excellent for stomach, liver or kidney troubles. 25c at The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. Advertisement.

The Trail of the Tariff

Effects of Free Trade and Protection From the Organization of the Government to the Present Day Graphically Shown in Parallel Columns.

Since the foundation of our government in 1783 down to the present year of 1912, the protective tariff policy has always brought a period of prosperity to this country during which the business of the country has prospered, the laboring man has had work, and the farmer has had good prices for his produce. So the prosperity of the country affects the wage-worker, the farm, the factory alike. Whenever there has been a period of free trade or tariff for revenue only, there has come business disaster; factories have been closed or run on short time; labor has been unemployed or employed only for part of the time and farm products have sold at very low prices. Times have been "hard."

In this campaign the voters are asked to determine again the question whether they will support President Taft and the Republican party in a continuance of the present prosperous conditions, or whether they will risk a change again to Woodrow Wilson and the Democratic party, which is committed by its platform and by the utterance of its candidate to a free trade policy.

The Appleton, Wis., Daily Post of Oct. 23 contained a striking illustration of the effects of our experiments with free trade and with protection, the alternating periods being represented by black and white sections. Alternating all through our history, the black periods of depression invariably came with the free trade periods and the white periods of business prosperity invariably came with the protective tariff periods. We reproduce below in parallel columns the record of these years.

1783 TO 1789. Free Trade Period.	1789 TO 1816. Protection Period.
After the War of the Revolution, the Government did not have the power to place a tariff on foreign manufactured goods. The States only had that power. The highest duty was 2 1/2 to 5 per cent., which brought idleness, poverty, ruin, bankruptcy, riots, insurrections, suspension of the payment of debts, stay laws, loss of credit to the people, States and Nation.	Constitution adopted, with power to place duties on imported goods. Adoption of protective tariff laws. Work took the place of idleness, prosperity of poverty, commerce and business flourished; people prosperous; money plenty. The Republic strong enough to make war and whip her old enemy in defence of her honor, 1812.
1816 TO 1824. Revenue Tariff Period.	1824 TO 1832. Jacksonian Protection Period.
Suspension of business. Destruction of manufactures. Reduction of the circulating medium. Working men idle, and suffering great distress. High prices for foreign goods; low prices for American goods. Deficit in the National Treasury, Bankruptcy of the people, States and Nation.	Industries established. Money circulating. Employment plenty. Trade and Commerce prosperous. Good prices for American Goods; Reduction in the price of Foreign Goods. Jackson said: "Our country presents on every side marks of prosperity and happiness, unequalled, perhaps, in any other portion of the world."
1832 TO 1842. Calhoun Revenue Tariff Period.	1842 TO 1850. Whig Protective Tariff Period.
Workshops closed. Soup Houses opened. Work and Wages suspended. Corn burned for Fuel. The Sheriff the only Salesman. Treasury Deficit. Government Credit Destroyed. The people, States and Nation bankrupt.	Work and Wages increased. Soup Houses closed. Factories opened. Good Prices for Farm Products. Happy Saturday Nights. Revenue Receipts and Treasury Surplus. The People, States and Nation Prosperous.
1850 TO 1861. Democratic Free Trade Period.	1861 TO 1872. Republican Protective Tariff Period.
Factories closed. Soup Houses opened. Wages greatly reduced. "Wild-cat, Stump-tail" Currency. Revenue fell off one-half. Prices of foreign manufactured goods high. Prices of farm goods low. The people, States and Nation without credit or money.	War for the Union. Army and Navy created. Industries established. Highest Wages ever paid to Labor. Nation's Wealth Doubled. Greenbacks issued. The Nation Preserved. The Slaves Freed. The People, States and Nation prosperous beyond any Nation on earth.
1872 TO 1876. Reform Tariff Period.	1876 TO 1893. Protective Tariff Period.
Ten per cent. taken off the Tariff. Idleness, poverty, riots. Congress repeals the 10 per cent. reduction. Resumption of specie payments.	Increase of Industries. Increased Prosperity. McKinley Law passed. Greatest Prosperity ever enjoyed by any People. Homes and Farms purchased. Increase of Wages. The People, States and Nation enjoying the Highest Credit. Happy Saturday Nights.
1893 TO 1897. Democratic Free Trade Period.	1897 TO 1912. Protection Policy in Force.
Panic, idleness, poverty. Soup Houses opened. Factories closed. Bankruptcy. Revenue Short. Increase of the Public Debt. Loss of Money equal to expenses of the War.	Soup houses closed and factories opened. Unprecedented prosperity. A continued increase in wages. Deposits in Savings Banks trebled. The demand for Labor greater than the supply. Well stocked larders and domestic tranquility. Peace and happiness prevail.

After going over this record, no voter should hesitate to cast his vote next Tuesday for President Taft and the Republican party, whose principles have always brought prosperity to all classes of our citizens.

ALLEGED MURDERERS CAPTURED AT LIMA

The Conways Charged With a Brutal Crime.

Lima, O., Nov. 1.—Wanted at Chicago for the murder of Sophia G. Singer, Baltimore heiress, Charles D. Conway and Beatrice Ryall, known as Conway's wife, were arrested here.

The couple were arrested by local police after Chicago detectives had traced them from Rochester, Ind., and then east to Lima, Conway's former home. They agreed to return to Chicago without requisition.

Conway, whose real name is Charles Newton Kramer, was arrested at a hotel here. Beatrice Ryall was with him. When confronted by detectives from Chicago and local officers he admitted that he was Conway and that he had been in Chicago. He denied emphatically any part in the killing of Miss Singer.

The Conways were registered at the Cadillac as "Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Crawley, Sidney, O." The police learned from a cab driver that a couple answering the description of the pair wanted in Chicago had gone to the hotel. It was later learned that Conway had tried to get in communication with his mother on the evening of his arrival.

Conway offered no explanation of the finding of Miss Singer's body in his room at a Chicago hotel. He said he "guessed" it might have been dragged there after the murder.

LATE CONTRIBUTIONS

Supplemental Report of Treasurers of Campaign Committees.

Washington, Nov. 1.—Supplemental reports filed with the clerk of the house of representatives show that since the first reports were made about a week ago the total Republican contributions have been increased to $744,688 and the Democratic contributions to $815,052. In addition to that, the Democratic national committee has borrowed $40,000.

Contributions amounting to $153,655.92 were received by Republican national headquarters last week according to a supplemental report filed with the clerk of the house by George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican national committee. The report is in compliance with the statute requiring supplemental reports every six days after the first report.

During the last six days the Democratic national committee received contributions amounting to $36,688.72, and borrowed $40,000, according to their report. During this period the total expenditures amounted to $265,445.20.

European Powers Interested.

London, Nov. 1.—In the house of commons Sir Edward Grey, the minister of foreign affairs, stated that before the war in the Balkans began the powers had agreed to maintain the status quo. This action was communicated to the Balkan states at the time. The powers, Sir Edward added, would continue to consult each other with the object of promoting a general agreement between them. There was nothing in the international situation, declared the foreign secretary, which would likely check the prospect of peace when the military position makes that possible.

MOORING FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Government Takes Action On Sherman's Death.

FUNERAL SET FOR TOMORROW

On That Day All Executive Offices of the Government Will Be Closed, Flags Half-Masted and Salutes Will Be Fired by Every Saluting Ship at Home and Abroad and at Every Naval Station in the United States.

Utica, N. Y., Nov. 1.—The funeral of Vice President Jas. S. Sherman will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, with the pomp befitting his high station. Services will be held in the First Presbyterian church instead of in the Christ Dutch Reformed church, of which the vice president had for many years been a member, because the former edifice is much the larger. The Rev. L. H. Holden, pastor of Christ church, will conduct the funeral services with the assistance of the Rev. M. W. Stryker, D.D., president of Hamilton college, and a close friend of the late vice president. At the close of the service the remains will be escorted to Forest Hill cemetery, where they will be placed in a beautiful mausoleum, recently completed. It was stated that Mr. Sherman owns no lot of his own in the cemetery, so the body will be placed in the vault pending arrangements for burial. It was agreed that the family should act in conjunction with the sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate in preparing the funeral arrangements, and that no details had been finally decided upon until the sergeant-at-arms should be consulted.

The body of the vice president will lie in state at the Oneida county courthouse today from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m. It is expected that it will be returned to the Sherman home for private services Saturday morning.

All city flags were lowered to half mast, and by every other possible way the vice president's home city indicated its grief over his death. Mr. Sherman was a prominent factor in many business enterprises in the city, and the offices of all such concerns were closed.

TAFT'S PROCLAMATION

The Administration Will Take Formal Part in the Obsequies.

Washington, Nov. 1.—The official observances to be accorded the occasion of the death of Vice President Sherman by the United States government were prescribed in a proclamation issued by President Taft announcing to the country the fact of Mr. Sherman's death. The proclamation directs that tomorrow, the day set for the funeral, all the executive offices of the government at Washington shall be closed and business suspended. The national flag is to be displayed at half mast at all points and stations of the army and navy. Representatives of the United States abroad are directed to pay appropriate tribute to the memory of the vice president.

In the army the observances of the occasion of the funeral will not go beyond the half-masting of the flag on the day of the funeral. In the navy, however, in addition to the half-masting of the flag, salutes of nineteen guns will be fired by every saluting ship at home and abroad, and at every naval station of the United States. The salute will be fired at noon on the day of the funeral with one minute intervals between each gun. The officers of the navy will, for thirty days, wear the usual badge of mourning on their sleeves and on their swords when in uniform.

President Taft will leave Washington at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon, arriving in New York about 10 o'clock at night on his way to attend the funeral of Vice President James S. Sherman. The president will spend the night at the home of his brother, H. W. Taft, and will leave for Utica at 8:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. From New York to Utica he will travel in a private car attached to the special train which will be run from New York to Utica under the direction of the sergeant-at-arms of the United States senate. Senator Augustus C. Bacon of Georgia, who was elected pro tem president of the senate at the last session of congress, to serve temporarily until Dec. 16 next, sent the following order to Sergeant-at-Arms Ransdell: "Please telegraph to each senator informing him that as a mark of special honor and in accordance with what is doubtless the wish of the senate, I have appointed the entire senate as a committee to attend the funeral of the late vice president." The sergeant-at-arms extended an invitation on behalf of the senate to the co-ordinate branch of congress, and received a reply that the house had officially accepted the informal invitation through the speaker and that a committee of one from each state in the Union would be appointed to attend the funeral.

Fatally Hurt by Automobile. Wabash, Ind., Nov. 1.—William H. Miller, riding in a buggy, was struck by an automobile and perhaps fatally injured. Miller was knocked from the rig and carried some distance on the hood of the automobile.

THIS WOMAN HAS A REMARKABLE RECORD

Second Set of Triplets In Thirteen Months.

Franklin, Pa., Nov. 1.—Mrs. Stephen Nagerotte of Frenchtown, Crawford county, has the remarkable record of child bearing of six children in a little over thirteen months. She has borne fifteen children in twelve years and thirteen of them are living. On Sept. 10, 1911, she gave birth to triplets, two girls and a boy, and yesterday three sturdy boys arrived just thirteen months and twenty days after the other trio. The mother, an American, was the belle of an old settlement of French Catholics before her marriage to Nagerotte, himself of French descent, and a farmer, twelve years ago. The first children came singly; five years ago came twins, to be followed by two single children, and then the triplets in 1911. One of the three born last year died a few months ago, but the other two were crying lustily when the new trio arrived. Mrs. Nagerotte is a small woman and does all her own work, including the care of the children.

ALL ENDS WELL

Austrian Grand Duke's Wedding Finally Favored by Emperor.

Vienna, Nov. 1.—An interesting change is impending in the status of Archduke Ferdinand Charles, nephew of the Emperor Francis Joseph and a cousin of the former Crown Princess Louise of Saxony, who a few years ago renounced all his titles when he married Fraulein Rosa Gzuber, the daughter of a Vienna university professor. Friendly court connections are reported to have succeeded in appeasing the emperor's objections to the marriage, and Mrs. Burg will receive the title of Countess of Rottenstein. The couple have been living quietly at the castle of Rottenstein at Morau.

Another Registration Scandal.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 1.—The grand jury is investigating alleged illegal registrations Oct. 5. Detectives have been at work checking up the registrations and have unearthed infractions of the law. It is reported that one of the detectives said the number of indictments may reach 1,000.

THE COUNTY TICKET.

Every voter is interested in selecting officers who will serve the county best. This fact should not be overlooked at the election next week when a complete county ticket will be chosen. Men should be selected for the county officers who are honest and upright and who have ability to serve the people so that their interests will be conserved and the county may progress in all departments.

The republican county ticket commends itself to all voters who desire that the affairs be conducted in a businesslike manner and that economy be practiced in all departments of the county government. The candidates on the republican ticket are well known throughout the county and should receive the support of a large majority of the voters.

One of the most important county offices to be filled at the coming election is that of treasurer. To this official is left the duty of collecting and paying out public funds and the importance of this position is readily seen and appreciated. For this position the republicans have nominated Charles Brand, of Jackson township. He has always taken an active interest in the welfare of his township and county, and is well known for his integrity and is well equipped and qualified for the position he seeks.

Leonard C. Huffington, of Carr township, who was nominated for county auditor, needs no introduction to the people of Jackson county. He has an excellent standing among the people of his community where he has resided for many years. He has been successful in his private business and knows how to conduct the affairs of the auditor's office in the best manner. The people could place their trust in Mr. Huffington and feel assured that that department of the county government was being well conducted.

Frank Boas, of Driftwood township, was nominated for the important office of sheriff. Any one who knows Mr. Boas knows that he is admirably fitted for this position and that he would do his utmost to fulfill his oath of office. He would in fact as well as name, be the guardian of

THE SIGN AND THE LEAVEN. Mark 8:11-26

GOLDEN TEXT.—Then spake Jesus again unto them, saying, I am the light of the world: he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.—John 8:12.

Having again crossed the sea after He had fed the 4,000, the Pharisees and Sadducees came to Him tempting Him and asking Him to show them a sign from heaven. He called them a wicked and adulterous generation and said that no sign would be given unto them, but the sign of the prophet Jonas (verses 11, 12; Matt. xvi. 1-4). This was his second reference to Jonah. On the former occasion He spoke of his experience in the belly of the fish and said that so He would be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth (Matt. xii. 12-40). The Pharisees believed in angels, spirits and the resurrection, but were self righteous formalists, hypocrites, covetous and did their works to be seen of men.

The Sadducees did not believe in the resurrection (Mark xii. 18). His spirit was grieved because of them, so He left them and again went across the sea with His disciples, having only one loaf in the boat with them, for the disciples forgot to take bread. He charged them to take heed and beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees and of Herod. They thought that He was referring to their forgetfulness in the matter of bread. What a suggestive lesson for us who are apt to think more of the health of the body than of the health of the soul, careful concerning what we eat and drink, but receiving the most poisonous things for our minds in the way of doctrine and from the daily papers and magazines. How they could think that lack of bread would be at all perplexing to Him whom they had seen feed 5,000 and 4,000 with a few loaves and fishes seems indeed strange, and we do not wonder that He reminded them of these events and said: "Having eyes, see ye not? And, having ears, hear ye not? And do ye not remember? How is it that ye do not understand?" (Verses 17-21; Matt. xvi. 8-12.) When He said plainly, "I spake not to you concerning bread," then they understood that He referred to the doctrine of the Pharisees and of the Sadducees.

In addition to what we said above concerning these two classes of people, it might be added that the Pharisees denied any necessity for Christ's first coming, and the Sadducees denied His second coming, saying there is no resurrection, neither angel nor spirit, nor future rewards and punishments (Acts xxiii. 8). The leaven of Herod suggests worldliness in every form, with a bit of religion, for Herod feared John the Baptist and observed him, heard him gladly and did many things, but kept right on in sin and would rather please sinners than do what he knew to be right (Mark vi. 20, 26). Let me again emphasize what I firmly believe—that there is no place in the Bible where heaven ever means anything good, and therefore to speak of anything good as the leaven working is altogether unscriptural. It is easily so seen in our lesson; in the passover story of Ex. xii; in the sacrifices of Lev. ii. 11; in the thanksgiving offering of Lev. vii. 12, 13; Amos 4. 5, where they were told that to offer leaven was just like them, and in 1 Cor. v. 6-8.

Those who think that our Lord meant something good when He said, "The kingdom of heaven is like unto leaven which a woman took and hid in three measures of meal till the whole was leavened" (Matt. xiii. 33), should study carefully the four parables of which this is the last and note that our Lord was speaking not of the kingdom when it shall have come, but of this present age of the mysteries of the kingdom (Matt. xiii. 11), while He and it are both rejected and the church is being gathered. Not one of the four parables gives any encouragement to look for a converted world in this age, and the story of the leaven teaches that the woman, the professing church, will thoroughly corrupt her food. Let any one consider the Sunday topics of the majority of preachers of the present day and then say whether the people are getting pure water from the fountain of life or something from the preacher's own mind and not from God.

The conclusion of our lesson, found only in Mark, is the record of His healing a blind man at Bethesda. Some one has said that all miracles are acted parables and that all physical infirmities are suggestive, if not actually typical, of spiritual troubles. All blind people suggest the blindness that holds all who have never seen Jesus Christ as God and as the great sacrifice for their sins, whom He calls blind, advising them to anoint their eyes with eye salve that they may see.

Some blind people received their sight by a word from Him. One had clay put upon his eyes and was sent to Siloam to wash. Some had clean vision instantly, but this man received his sight gradually. We must not covet an experience similar to another, but be quite content to have the Lord deal with us as He pleases. This man He took by the hand and led him out of the town. What a picture—the Creator of all things taking a blind man by the hand and walking with him along the street, the author of life and light, Himself the life and light, touching human blindness.

THE LESSON QUIZ.

[Copyright, 1911, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.]

The Sign and the Leaven. Mark viii. 11-26.

Golden Text.—Jesus spake unto them, saying, I am the light of the world; he that followeth me shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life. John viii. 12.

(1.) Verse 11—How do you account for the fact that religious differences generally stir much antagonism?

(2.) Why is it impossible to learn spiritual truth when in an antagonistic frame of mind?

(3.) What caused the Sadducees and Pharisees, who hated each other, to unite in their hatred of Jesus?

(4.) What was the nature of the "sign" they wanted?

(5.) Verses 12-13—What reason is there to believe that if Jesus had performed ever so wonderful a "sign" it would have made any difference in their attitude to him?

(6.) Why did their request for a sign make Jesus feel so sad? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(7.) Was their opposition to Jesus honest or dishonest? Give your reasons.

(8.) Why did not the wonderful "signs" which Jesus had already performed satisfy them?

(9.) Which cause is the more influential in keeping men from Christ today, a lack of evidence of the truth of Christianity or the love of sin? Give your reasons.

(10.) Verse 14—If the disciples ought to have taken bread and did not, was the forgetting a sinful act?

(11.) Is it ever wrong to forget and, if so, under what circumstances?

(12.) Verses 15-16—As Jesus did not mean to reproach them for not taking bread, whether they were blame-worthy or not, why did their consciences accuse them of neglect?

(13.) What does literal leaven do, and what did Jesus mean by "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees and of the leaven of Herod?"

(14.) Why ought all who would be good to beware of Pharisaical hypocrisy, ostentation, pride, formalism and placing the letter before the spirit and of Herodian superstition, sensuality and cruelty?

(15.) What should be the compelling spirit of every Christ man?

(16.) Verses 17-18—What part does a clear conscience, an unselfish spirit and a tender heart play in understanding the ways of God?

(17.) What error or sin were these apostles guilty of to merit this rebuke of Jesus?

(18.) Verses 19-21—When we do our duty is there any need to fear for our bread and butter? Why?

(19.) How many times in your life have you eaten all the food you have had or could procure, and how many times have you had plenty of food left after every meal? Then why do you worry for the future?

(20.) Verses 22-26—Why do you think Jesus used different outward methods in restoring sight to the blind?

(21.) How many different types of conversion and of religious experience are there? Did you ever know any two exactly alike?

(22.) What analogy is there between this man's experience and when our spiritual eyes are first opened?

Practical Fashions

BOY'S SUIT.

For a small boy nothing is nicer or more appropriate than a little suit made after the manner of the one here illustrated. The blouse closes at the right side of the front and the trousers are made without fly and are finished with legbands or elastics. Linen, repp, galatea, plique or madras may be used. The pattern offers a novelty in a suit of this nature, and the mother who likes her children's clothes to be a little "different" will surely appreciate the model.

The pattern (5859) is cut in sizes 3, 4 and 6 years. Medium size will require 2½ yards of 36 inch material. To make the suit of two materials, as represented, will require 1½ yards of 36 inch material for blouse and 1½ yards of 36 inch contrasting goods for trousers and sleeves.

To procure this pattern send 10 cents to "Pattern Department," of this paper. Write name and address plainly, and be sure to give size and number of pattern.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

TONY DONATO, HERO.

Tony Donato, an Italian section man, was in the employ of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad.

For nearly twenty years he had rendered faithful service.

A wife and six little girls were entirely dependent upon his labors.

One day last May with others he was working on the tracks near the New Haven depot. An express train was coming in over the freight tracks. Donato saw that a heavy tie was lying upon the tracks.

Quickly the Italian leaped down and threw off the tie. Before he could jump back to safety the engine caught him and crushed out his life.

He had averted a catastrophe. At first the railroad company refused to pay more than the funeral expenses and a month's wages to Donato's family. Charitable persons intervened, and the company finally paid the destitute family $3,000.

The sum should have been $5,000, the minimum pay for the loss of a human life.

Now there is a movement to secure the Carnegie hero fund, a fund that is distributed to the survivors of those who distinguish themselves for bravery in the saving of human lives. So far this attempt has been unsuccessful.

This is the objection offered:

Donato, it is claimed by the trustees of the fund, was killed while in the discharge of his duty and therefore is not entitled to recognition.

Forsooth!

Cannot a man be a hero in the performance of his duty? Is not the brave engineer who goes down with his engine in order to save his passengers merely doing his duty? And is he any the less a hero?

But—

In this case the objection cannot hold. Donato was not engaged in the mere performance of his duty. He was not paid to remove ties from the track at the risk of his life.

Donato did this gracious deed solely from an unselfish impulse. He wanted to save the train and the people.

He was only an Italian workman—But a hero nevertheless.

Can there be anything in the fact that Donato happened to be an Italian? Is there prejudice because the hero was a "dago?"

Only a dago, but—

His family was as dear to him as yours is to you, and he desired to live, as do you. In obedience to a merciful impulse he died to save others.

The Carnegie hero fund trustees will wait long before they receive an application so worthy.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

MOCK POULTRY.

WHEN poultry is high other meats may be prepared to imitate the various fowls.

Veal is used for preparing mock pigeons, mock goose and mock duck. Mock duck is sometimes made with calf's heart instead of with beefsteak, as in the instance given here.

Excellent Counterfeits.

Mock Pigeon.—Take the bone from two fillets of veal. Flatten them and spread with a forcemeat made with seasoned bread crumbs. Roll these up and bind into oblongs with strings. Bake for two hours in a covered dripping pan with two cupfuls of water. When done season the gravy with pepper, salt and tomato ketchup. Thicken with browned flour. Pour part of the gravy over the meat and serve the rest in a gravy boat.

Mock Goose.—Take the bones from a good sized piece of breast of veal. Trim it and lay it on a board. Cover it thickly with a sage and onion dressing, roll tightly and bind with tape to keep it in shape. It may then be baked in a good oven. A good deal of basting will be necessary. Send it to the table very hot, with a good brown gravy and apple sauce in a separate tureen. The time for cooking the goose will depend on its size.

Fowl With a Difference.

Mock Chicken.—Cut a piece of veal into pieces and place in an enameled saucepan with a tablespoonful of butter. Let it cook until seared on every side. Then add enough water to almost cover. Simmer till nearly done and add dumplings made as follows:

Sift one heaping cup of flour with a heaping teaspoonful of baking powder and a pinch of salt. Add just enough water to make a stiff batter. Drop from the spoon, cover tightly and let boil fifteen minutes. Thicken the gravy after removing dumplings and serve.

Mock Duck.—Round steak is required for this. To make the stuffing for the imitation duck proceed as follows: Take one-half loaf of bread, soaked and minced fine; one onion cut fine, a sprinkle of sage and thyme, salt and pepper and one-half teaspoonful of baking powder and a piece of butter. Mix well and spread on round steak, roll and tie; put in pan and bake with one-half cupful of water and several bits of butter. Place the potatoes in a pan around the duck. Baste well when baking.

BEST MEDICINE.

Fresh air is probably the world's best medicine, not only in the treatment of disease, but in its prevention. This is a statement buried in an announcement by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis. Not one person in 100, it says further, gets enough fresh air at his work, at his rest or in his sleep. The association has published a handbook on the subject of sleeping out of doors and giving directions as to how to obtain the greatest benefit in so doing. The helpfulness of fresh air has long been understood in a general way, but calling it the world's best medicine will give it a new value in the minds of many. Knowledge of it has expanded in the last few years from a point at which it was thought necessary to send sufferers from tuberculosis to California, Colorado or Arizona to a point when the atmosphere of the Adirondacks was appreciated, and since then, to the appreciation of the most available large open space having clean air. But while the curative work goes on, thousands of more or less able-bodied persons make no effort to secure individual breathing space. They sleep with closed windows, ride in closed cars and work in stuffy offices, shops or stores. Some few persons in the crowd whose lungs are offended protest or escape, but the bulk of humanity tolerates polluted air while it craves for unpolluted food and drink.

There are 100,000,000 suns in the visible universe, for every star is a sun, and the nearest one is 26,000,000,000 miles distant, and there are some that we can see that are 20 times further away, and some that we cannot see with the biggest telescope we can take a photograph of. Light travels 190,000 miles a second, and yet there are some stars that are so far away that the light which started when Christ was on earth hasn't got here yet, says the Ohio State Journal. If you could shoot a cannon off the nearest star, it would take over 1,000,000 years for the sound to reach the earth. Doesn't that make us look little? Yes, when we measure by material things, which we are so apt to use as standards; but when we think of the intellect making the calculation it makes us seem tall, indeed. But there is another important fact about this subject, which is that all these stars are rushing through space at the rate of 50 to 200 miles a second, and yet they don't seem to move an inch in a lifetime, they are so far away. And, more, too, they seem to have a concurrent motion, as if revolving around some great center, which some have regarded as heaven, which good souls go to, for it should be remembered that spirit can go faster than light.

A medical expert, speaking before the Eugenics Congress, declared he would rather have a robust burglar than a consumptive bishop for his father. He should follow up this by the logical advocacy of the abolition of the present state of society in favor of a return to the days of the cave men when the physical basis was the ideal of life. In fact, all the so-called new thoughts about life and progress are suspiciously like a return to the good old times when might was right and men did not bother with the fine distinctions of morals and laws.

The advice to substitute beans for meat will receive a setback through the explosion of some boiling beans in a Colorado town. The beans tore the stove to pieces and threw the owner of the house out the kitchen door. With the militant spirit abroad as it is, the adoption of beans as the principal article of diet had best be postponed.

A British merchant on a visit to this side says they do not have affairs like our bargain sales in London. In such a case the average English shopping woman's life can be hardly worth living.

Barbers of Cleveland announce that they are about to charge 30 cents for haircuts. It is to be sincerely hoped that the price is no indication of the appearance of the job.

A Michigan young man is making his way through college by raising frogs. He belongs to the energetic type who do not croak over hard luck.

Nearly 2,000,000,000 cigarettes were smoked in this country last year. Probably that includes those smoked in the moving pictures.

Somehow the doctrine of the non-existence of disease doesn't seem to stand up when hydrophobia puts in an appearance.

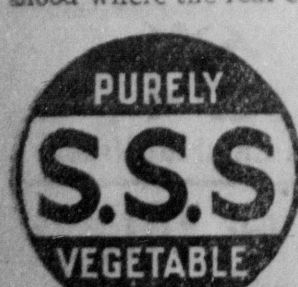

After having learned last year's football rules all you need to do this year is to learn some new ones.

Though it is going to cost a lot of money to move the crops, it will be worth the price.

Every change of fashion adds a line to father's brow.

ALWAYS CONQUERS RHEUMATISM

Thousands of persons have been rescued from the tortures of Rheumatism and restored to perfect health by the use of S. S. S. So uniform are the good results from its use that we do not hesitate to say S. S. S. always conquers Rheumatism if given a fair trial. You can never cure this deep-seated disease with external treatment, such as liniments, plasters, blisters, etc. These may furnish temporary relief but they do not reach the blood where the real cause is located. Rheumatism is rooted and grounded in the blood and must be driven from its stronghold there before permanent relief can be had. S. S. S. conquers Rheumatism by driving from the circulation the excess accumulation of uric acid which is responsible for the disease. S. S. S. strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a weak, sour fluid, causing pain and agony throughout the system, it becomes a nourishing stream furnishing health to every portion of the body and relieving every symptom of Rheumatism. If you do not conquer Rheumatism it will conquer you. S. S. S. is the remedy you can depend upon for good effects. Book on Rheumatism and medical advice free. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

CHAPTER II.

A Lovers' Quarrel.

WHEN Stuart reached the Gracery park house a maid answered at last and ushered him into the dimly lighted parlor.

"Miss Nan is at home, Bert?" he asked eagerly.

The little Danish maid smiled knowingly.

"Na, but Mees Primrose?"

With a groan Stuart sank to a chair. The entire house had been redecorated. An oriental rug of dazzling medallion pattern was on the newly polished floor. Instead of the set of Chipendale mahogany the Primroses had brought from the south a complete outfit of stately gilded stuff filled the room, and heavy draperies to match hung from the tall windows and folding doors. The mother's velvet hand saw at once. Of course she had not borrowed the money from Bivens. She was too shrewd for that. But she had borrowed it beyond a doubt, and she had evidently gone the limit of her credit without a moment's hesitation. He wondered how far she had got with Bivens. Could it be possible that Nan was with him tonight? No—preposterous!

Mrs. Primrose greeted him with unusual effusion.

"Oh, Jim, this is such a glorious surprise! Nan didn't expect you till morning, and she will be heartbroken to have missed you even for a half hour. My dear, dear boy, you have no idea how lonely both of us have been with you the past two weeks."

"You missed me, too, Mrs. Primrose?"

"Of course I missed you, Jim! You've come to be like one of us. You know I've always loved you next to Nan."

She spoke with such fervor that Stuart shivered. It was sinister. She evidently felt sure of his ruin.

"We needed you here so much to help us fix up. We've had the good luck to rent our second floor to a young millionaire!"

"Mr. Bivens, yes?"

"Why, how did you know?" she asked with a start.

"Dr. Woodman has just received an important letter from him, dated here, and he asked my advice about it."

"Oh—"

"Where's Nan?" Stuart asked, with sudden anger in spite of his effort to keep cool.

"Why, she's giving a little box party at the theater tonight!"

"And our mutual friend, John C. Calhoun Bivens, is presiding?"

"Why, Jim, how could you be so absurd?" she protested indignantly. "I've been saving money for a month to give Nan this chance to return some courtesies she has received from rich friends. I need Mr. Bivens' money to pay the rent of this big house. But any attention on his part to Nan would be disgusting to me beyond measure."

"Yet he's the sensation in high finance just now," Stuart said, with an unconscious sneer. "They say he's destined to become a multi-millionaire."

"Come, come, Jim, it's not like you to be nasty to me. You know as well as I do his origin in North Carolina. His people are the veriest trash. He was at college with you!"

"And how did you know that?"

"Not from you, of course. You've never mentioned his name in your life. He told me. He thinks you are going to be the greatest lawyer in New York. And I told him we'd known that for a long time."

Stuart turned his head to hide a smile.

"But of course he's not in Nan's social set. I told her the day he came that we would treat him politely, but draw the line strictly on any efforts he may make to pass the limits of acquaintance."

A carriage stopped at the door.

"There's Nan now!" the mother exclaimed, rising to go. "I'll leave you to surprise her, Jim."

Stuart heard the carriage door slam, and in a moment the girl he loved stood in the hall, the joy of an evening's perfect happiness shining in her great dark eyes. He watched her a moment unobserved as she laid aside her opera cloak and stood before the big mirror proudly and calmly surveying her figure. Never had her beauty seemed to him so dazzling. The smile was one of conscious power. The corners of the full sensuous lips curved the slightest bit as the smile faded and a gleam of something like cruelty flashed from the depths of her eyes as her head lifted.

Stuart, unable to wait longer, was about to spring to her side when she caught the flash of his laughing face in the mirror and turned.

"Oh, you rascal! To surprise me like this!" she cried, with joyous laughter. "In all your pride and vanity!"

"You can't help being a little vain yourself, Jim, any more than I can. You know you're a stunning looking fellow. These Yankee girls all love you at first sight—the tall, straight, sinewy figure, strong and swift in every movement, the finely chiseled face, the deep set, dark brown eyes under their heavy brows, that big masterful jaw and firm mouth!"

Stuart suddenly took her in his arms and kissed her into silence.

"Hush, Nan. I don't like the way you say that."

"Why? Am I too modest?"

"No, too deliberate and coldly mistress of yourself. I wish you loved me a little more tumultuously as I do you."

"Well, let me whisper then that your return tonight has made a perfect ending to a perfect day. Oh, Jim, I've been so happy tonight! Seated in that big stage box I felt that I was some body. This is the first really decent dress I've ever had in my life."

"And you are proud and happy?"

"Proud for your sake, Jim, yes; and happy in your love."

Stuart's face clouded and he turned away, startled for the first time by a strange similarity in the tone of Nan's voice to her mother's.

The painful impression was suddenly broken by a quick touch of Nan's hand on his arm.

"Oh, Jim, I'm glad you came a day earlier. I've something to tell you, something wonderful, something that will bring our happiness near!" Her voice sank to the tenderest accents. "You know Mr. Bivens?"

"Yes," Stuart answered evenly, controlling himself with an effort.

"Well, he has taken our second floor. I had a long talk with him last week. By the merest accident I learned that his big trust, the American Chemical company, needs another lawyer. They pay an enormous salary with all sorts of chances to get rich. They are making millions on millions. I told him that you were the very man for the place and that you were going to be the greatest lawyer in New York. Imagine my joy when he not only agreed with me, but said he would double the salary if you would accept it. He thought you wouldn't, merely because you lived in the house of old Woodman with whom the company may have a fight. I told him it was nonsense, that I knew you would accept. You'll accept, of course?"

"Emphatically no!"

"You can't be so absurd!"

"Have you been receiving the attentions of this distinguished young millionaire, Nan?"

"I've been cultivating him."

"Cultivating?"

"Yes, for your sake only, you big, handsome, foolish, jealous boy! You can't be in earnest when you say that you will refuse such an offer?"

"Yes, because I will not become the hireling of a corporation, to say nothing of this particular one headed by Mr. Bivens."

"Nonsense, Jim. You wouldn't be a hireling. You would lay the law down for them to follow."

"No. A modern corporation has no soul, and the man who serves this master must sell both body and soul for the wages he receives. I am a lawyer of the old school. My work is illumined by imagination. My business is to enforce justice in the relations of men."

"But some of the greatest lawyers in America are corporation attorneys!"

"All the reason more why I should keep clean. Lawyers once constituted our aristocracy of brain and culture. I can't prostitute my talents to a work I don't believe in. A man's work is a revelation of what he is. And what he is will depend at last on what he does."

"But you mean to be rich and powerful, Jim?"

"If it comes with the growth of manhood and character, yes. But I will not degrade myself with work I hate or take orders from men I despise. The world is already full of such slaves."

Stuart paused and laid his hand gently on the girl's white, round arm, and she turned, with a start.

"I didn't hear your last sentence, Jim."

"Of what were you thinking?"

"Of what a woman is always thinking—consciously or unconsciously, of my home—whether it shall be a hovel or a palace."

"It all depends on whether love is the builder!"

"It all depends on the man I marry," was the laughing answer. "I've always dreamed of you as a man of wealth and power. Your splendid talents mean this. When you came to New York I was more sure of you than ever. You've simply got to make money, Jim. Nothing else counts in the world today. I hate poverty—I fear it—I loathe it!"

"And yet," the lover said, drawing closer, "I hold the touch of your little finger of greater value than all the gold on the earth or beneath it."

"Don't interrupt me, please, with irrelevant remarks," Nan cried, laughing in spite of herself. "Seriously, Jim—you must listen to me. I'm in dead earnest. You must have money, if for no other reason because I wish it. I can't be happy in poverty. The man I love must be rich. Oh, Jim, you shall be! Wealth is the only road now from the vulgar crowd—the only way to climb on top."

"But suppose I don't wish to climb on the top of people?"

"You can't be such a fool!"

"But suppose I am? True civilization has always placed manhood above money."

"Jim, are you crazy?"

"It's true, dear. My father gave up his law practice to bend over my mother's bedside for six months. He was a giant in mind and body—she a poor little, broken, withered invalid. He lost money and clients and never regained them. Did it pay? Does anything that's born of love pay? Surely not children. I was always a dead expense. The biggest fee I ever received as a lawyer in New York was a shout of joy from a poor woman whose boy I freed from a false charge of crime. She fell sobbing before me and actually kissed my feet."

"Oh, Jim, why can't you be practical? Why are you not willing to fight for a fortune—as other men?"

"Because, dear," he answered quickly and tenderly, "we haven't time—you and I. Life is too short. Love is too sweet. The fields are too green."

"The man I love must be rich."

The birds sing too sweetly. Have you forgotten our old day dreams in the fields at home?"

"I've forgotten everything," she answered bitterly, "except that you are failing me when put to the first test. And it would be such a little thing for you to do."

"At the price of my self respect—and you call this a little thing. Great God!"

Nan rose with a sudden gesture of impatience.

"You refuse absolutely to consider this generous offer?"

"Absolutely."

"And you are willing that the woman you love shall live in poverty while more fortunate sisters laugh and dance in luxury?"

"The one joy of my life will be to gratify every reasonable wish of your body and soul."

"Yet the first reasonable wish I express you refuse to consider. Mr. Bivens says he would make you a millionaire in five years. You're only twenty-six now."

"That's very kind of Mr. Bivens, I'm sure. When I need his patronage I'll take my place in line with other beneficiaries and ask for it."

Nan suddenly extended her hand.

"Good night."

He attempted to draw her into his arms.

She repulsed him and repeated her cold dismissal.

"Good night."

"Nan, dear," he pleaded, "we've never parted in anger before. Of all the hours of my life this is one in which I—least dreamed of such a thing."

Without a word she turned toward the stairs.

"Nan!" he called tenderly.

With a sob she threw herself into his arms.

"Forgive me, Jim."

"Forgive me, dear, if I've seemed unreasonable," was the low answer.

"But you will think it over, won't you? Just for my sake—just because I ask it—won't you?"

"Just because you ask it—yes, I will, dearest."

He kissed her tenderly and walked home with a great sickening fear slowly creeping into his heart.

Well-Known Rochester Citizen Saved From Serious Trouble.

I have used your preparation, Swamp-Root, with great success, and for kidney and bladder trouble I have never found anything to equal it. I have recommended it to a great many people and have never been disappointed as to results obtained from its use. I feel it my duty to write you this as it may be the means of persuading others to give this grand remedy a trial.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root saved me from Bright's Disease and Dropsy in 1884, after the doctors said I could not possibly live.

Yours very truly,

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Seymour People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, for Seymour kidney sufferers, have made their local reputation. Proof lies in the testimony of Seymour people.

Mrs. Henry Moritz, 528 W. Laurel St., Seymour, Ind., says: "The public testimonial I gave in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills some years ago was correct and you may continue using it. I know that this preparation is worthy of the name of an honest kidney remedy. I suffered intensely from lameness across the small of my back and my rest was broken at night. The kidney secretions were irregular in passage and I also had severe headaches. Doan's Kidney Pills corrected these troubles."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

BRICE'S CROSSROADS BATTLE

Prominent Part Taken by Third Iowa Cavalry in Battle and Retreat—Many Were Killed.

In answer to Comrade Riley I will give a condensed report from Colonel Noble (Third Iowa cavalry) to Adjutant General Baker of Iowa, writes W. E. Hayden of Portland, Ore., in the National Tribune, which ought to satisfy him as to the part the cavalry took at Brice's Crossroads:

"Headquarters Third Iowa cavalry, Near Memphis, Tenn., August 9, 1864.

"Sir: I have the honor to report as to the part taken by the Third Iowa cavalry in the expedition under Gen. Sturgis. Approaching Brice's Crossroads at 11 a. m., this command went into line of battle by battalion on the right of the main road, and soon after the artillery opened in front. We then advanced beyond Brice's about 500 yards. After forming in line with the balance of the brigade the cavalry was dismounted and the horses sent to the rear. Soon after we became heavily engaged with the enemy, and held them in check for an hour. On the left of our brigade the enemy was driven back three different times. At this juncture my whole command was relieved by regiments of infantry, and was retreating when the infantry became engaged. We formed a new line in their rear, rather than to appear to leave them in an emergency.

"The contest lasted but a short time after this, and the enemy was hotly pressing his victory, and we took a second position, mounted, to protect the retreating column. A column of squadrons was again formed facing the enemy and retired by alternate squadron, keeping the enemy in check.

"Our greatest difficulty was to cross the swamp in our rear, and in it were caught most of the artillery and train of the army. Arriving at Stubbs' plantation, we rested from 11 p. m. to 2 a. m., when we again moved toward Ripley, holding the rear. At Ripley I found the infantry filling the streets, and was notified that the enemy was about to attack on the left. I formed a column of squadrons, faced to the rear, and at the same time was ordered to support the Fourth Iowa cavalry, then in action. Deploying a battalion, I ordered it to the rear, and at the same time pushed forward another battalion in column to hold the road of retreat for the other troops. My advance in line was made under severe fire, but officers and men were cool and kept a steady line. The enemy was checked and the position held until his object attained. Then General Grierson ordered me to retire.

"To retire was difficult, for the enemy, having no resistance elsewhere, were flanking as well as pressing from the rear. Their fire was redoubled as we moved again upon the road. In this stand we lost several men. Much relief was given to the infantry regiments who were retreating from Ripley, and the enemy did not escape without punishment; his flag was seen to fall three times under our fire and many of his men were killed and wounded. Platoon after platoon was thrown out right and left along the road, presenting a front to the rebels. This method of defense was continued throughout the day. A cavalry force and an infantry command finally appeared and gave my regiment temporary relief. But the enemy, still pressing the cavalry, failed to hold their place, and a portion of the infantry was thrown into confusion and captured. Colonel Thomas, commanding the infantry, applied to me for relief, and I formed another battalion line, supporting it with several squadrons placed at advantageous points. The infantry passed through my line, and I was once more contending with the enemy. I was finally relieved by the Fourth Iowa cavalry. The losses in my regiment were 62 killed, wounded and prisoners.—John W. Noble, Colonel, Third Iowa cavalry.

THE FIRST GRAY HAIR

SIGN OF AGE.

Easy Way to Preserve Natural Color of the Hair.

A harmless remedy, made from common garden sage, quickly restores gray hair to natural color. The care of the hair, to prevent it from losing its color and lustre, is just as important as to care for teeth to keep them from discolored. Why spend money for cosmetics and creams to improve the complexion, and yet neglect your hair, when gray hair is even more conspicuous and suggestive of age than wrinkles or a poor complexion? Of the two, it is easier to preserve the natural color and beauty of the hair than it is to have a good complexion.

All that is necessary is the occasional use of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a preparation of common Garden Sage and Sulphur, combined with other valuable remedies for dry, harsh, faded hair, dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair. After a few applications of this simple, harmless remedy, your hair will gradually be restored to its natural color, in a short time the dandruff will be removed, and your hair will no longer come out but will start to grow as Nature intended it should.

Don't neglect your hair, for it goes further than anything else to make or mar your good looks. You can buy this remedy at any drug store, for fifty cents a bottle, and your druggist will give your money back if you are not satisfied after using. Purchase a bottle today. You will never regret it when you realize the difference it will make in your appearance. Special Agents Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind. N1d Advertisement.

Plates.

Individual plates for table use were unknown to the ancients, who held their meat in their hands or employed the flat wheaten cakes then made on which to hold their victuals. They are first mentioned in A. D. 600 as used by the luxurious on the continent, and in the ninth century they had come into common use both in England and on the continent. They were made of wood or some kind of earthenware the former material being preferred because it did not dull the knives.

Alligator Skins.

The difficulty about raising alligators to supply the demand for the animals and skins is that they do not attain full growth for about 100 years. The skin of the six or seven-year-old animal is available, however, for many practical purposes. There is one on a farm at Palm Beach which measures eighteen feet in length and is said to be about 900 years old. There are several of these farms in operation at the present time, but the industry will not be really profitable until the wild alligators become scarcer.—Exchange.

SAFE REMEDY ENDS CATARRH MISERIES.

Gives Instant Relief, Cures and Prevents Catarrh.

The quickest, best and safest way to cure catarrh or a cold in the head is by using a remedy that will "touch the spot" and do its work quickly without leaving any bad effects. Ely's Cream Balm, which is applied to the nostrils or rubbed on the throat or chest gets right at the root of the trouble and instantly relieves even the worst case of catarrh or cold. A few minutes after applied you can feel a loosening up in the head, the pain and soreness are gone, the sense of taste, smell and hearing come back, and you feel like a different person.

Ely's Cream Balm cleanses, heals and strengthens inflamed membranes, takes away that stuffed up feeling and dull pain in the head, relieves the throat soreness and stops the nasty discharge which is the cause of the disgusting hawking, spitting, blowing of the nose, and foul breath. Hay fever victims who are made miserable by fits of sneezing, coughing and wheezing get instant and permanent relief by the use of this simple remedy.

Don't suffer another minute. Ely's Cream Balm will relieve you immediately, and a 50 cent bottle will more than likely work a complete cure. All druggists sell it. N8d Advertisement.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A novel Hallowe'en party was given last evening at the Carter property on Indianapolis avenue by the Misses Belya Reynolds, Faye Holmes, Anna E. Carter, Loretta Beckenholdt, Grace Love, Joy Hopewell and Hazel Pruden. They were assisted in entertaining by Mrs. L. B. Hill and Mrs. T. Roeger Carter.

The prevailing colors of the decorations were yellow and black. About the walls were a number of branches of colored autumn leaves, and upon the mantels were several jack-o'-lanterns. Streamers of black and white crepe paper extended from the center of the room to the corners where large shocks of fodder were arranged. Jack-o'-lanterns were also suspended from the ceiling.

During the evening the young ladies masked and considerable amusement was afforded when their partners tried to identify them.

The decorations of the dining table were very unique. The center piece was a large pumpkin upon which was a witch, who held the ribbons to the place cards. The names of the guests were written upon place cards of black cats. At each place was a fortune which could be read only after the paper was heated over the candles. A two course luncheon was served. The evening was spent in various Hallowe'en games and other amusements.

The out-of-town guests were the Misses Hazel Pruden of Cortland, Loretta Beckenholdt, of Lawrenceburg and Horace Bachelor, of Philadelphia, Robert Guthrie and Harry Shane, of Columbus, and Will Tilford of Crothersville.

HALLOWE'EN DANCE.

One of the prettiest dances of the Hallowe'en season was given at the society hall last night by a number of young people of the city. The room was decorated very attractively with jack-o'-lanterns, fodder and other Hallowe'en decorations. The color scheme was yellow and dark red. The chandeliers were draped with red crepe paper and from each a large jack-o'-lantern was suspended. Large branches of highly colored autumn leaves were hung at various places about the walls. In one corner of the room was a large shock of fodder through which the faces of several jack-o'-lanterns shone.

About twenty-five couples were present and enjoyed a delightful evening with an excellent program of dancing. The music was furnished by a Columbus orchestra and was unusually good. A buffet lunch was served. Several out-of-town guests were present.

HALLOWE'EN SOCIAL.

A very enjoyable Hallowe'en social was held at the consolidated school house near the Jackson apple orchard Thursday evening. A short program was rendered including recitations by Leland Bridges, who is one of the teachers at the school. Refreshments including pumpkin pies, ginger cakes, apples and other Hallowe'en refreshments were served. During the evening an organization was effected by which Joseph Niehter was elected chairman and James Jackson, secretary and treasurer. The purpose of the organization is to continue the neighborhood gatherings which have been so successful during the past year. This community takes great pride in their consolidated school and they are making it a social as well as intellectual center for the neighborhood.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

The Young Ladies' Society of the German Lutheran church gave a delightful Hallowe'en party at the school house Thursday evening for the members. Hallowe'en decorations were in evidence about the room and consisted of jack-o'-lanterns, autumn leaves and pumpkins. The decorations of the two dining tables were especially attractive. Upon each table there was a center piece of a large pumpkin filled with fruit. Around each of the tables was a border of large chrysanthemums and at each corner were several lighted candles. An elegant two course luncheon was served. The evening was spent in music, contests and various games, and all present enjoyed a very pleasant time.

MASQUERADE PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Husted entertained thirty-five of their friends very delightfully Thursday evening at their home on North Paplar street with a masquerade and Hallowe'en party. The decorations were in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. The jack-o'-lanterns were lighted with red, white and blue electric globes. The ladies were masked and their costumes were so unique that even their husbands did not know them. The evening was enjoyed with various games and contests. Refreshments were served.

HALLOWE'EN MASK SOCIAL.

Miss Rachel Barbour entertained a party of friends at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Barbour on North Chestnut street Thursday. The dining room was decorated with jack-o'-lanterns and lighted by candles, where refreshments suited to Hallowe'en customs were served in two courses. A marshmallow roast and a program of Hallowe'en games made up the enjoyable evening. Mrs. Barbour was assisted by Mrs. L. M. Mains, Jr. and Mrs. Charles Kessler.

ENTERTAINED.

The members of the German Lutheran Social Club entertained their lady friends with a Hallowe'en party at the club rooms on Chestnut street Thursday evening. The evening was enjoyed with music, games and other amusements.

The rooms were especially decorated for Hallowe'en, orange and black being the prevailing colors. Fodder and jack-o'-lanterns were in evidence. About 11 o'clock a course supper was served to the twenty-four guests present.

TAFFY CLUB.

Miss Marjory Jordan entertained the members of the Taffy Club with a Hallowe'en party last night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Jordan on North Poplar street. The decorations of the house were in keeping with Hallowe'en and were very attractive. Hallowe'en refreshments were served. The guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening with games and various amusements which were planned by the hostess.

SENIOR CLASS.

The senior class of the Shields high school was very pleasantly entertained Wednesday evening by Chester Miller at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miller, south of the city. The members of the class went to the Miller home on a hay wagon. The evening was enjoyed with games and various other amusements. The dining room was decorated in keeping with the Hallowe'en season. An excellent lunch was served.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Sutton very pleasantly entertained Thursday evening with a Hallowe'en party for their little son, Glenn. The house was decorated with jack-o'-lanterns and other Hallowe'en decorations. Quite a number of little folks enjoyed the evening together. Refreshments in keeping with the occasion were served. Mrs. Sutton was assisted in entertaining the little folks by Mrs. James Burke.

RECIPE SHOWER.

Miss Minnie Moritz was very pleasantly surprised with a recipe shower by fifty of her friends last night at her home on West Laurel street. All the guests were masked. The Hallowe'en decorations were unique and attractive. An elegant luncheon was served during the evening. The engagement of Miss Moritz to James Weaver, of Columbus, was recently announced.

PRISCILLA CLUB.

The Priscilla Club entertained their husbands with a Hallowe'en party Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Jones on North Chestnut street. The house was very artistically decorated in yellow, red and green. One of the features of the evening was the fish pond. During the evening a elegant two course luncheon was served.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Speier entertained the clerks of the Gold Mine very pleasantly Thursday evening at their home on West Fourth street with a Hallowe'en party. The decorations were in accordance with the Hallowe'en season. The entertainment of the evening consisted of games and music. A course luncheon was served.

BIRTHDAY CLUB.

Mrs. George Hancock was hostess last evening at her home on North Ewing street to the members of the Birthday Club. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. The members of the club were masked. A course luncheon was served in the dining room which was decorated in keeping with Hallowe'en.

DOBBINS-SPURLING.

Lee Dobbins and Miss May Spurling were quietly married this afternoon at the Methodist parsonage at Brownstown by Rev. E. F. Schneider. They left for Salem on a short wedding trip when they will return here and will live with his mother, Mrs. Mary Dobbins on South Chestnut street.

KAFFEE KLATCH.

Mrs. A. D. Shields was hostess Thursday evening at her home on West Fourth street to the members of the Kaffee Klatch. An excellent Hallowe'en luncheon was served to the members.

HALLOWE'EN PARTY.

A number of the friends of Miss Dora Deppert, of Rockford, were very pleasantly entertained at her home Thursday evening with a Hallowe'en party. The Hallowe'en season was remembered in the decorations and refreshments. A very delightful time was enjoyed by the guests.

ENTERTAINED.

Miss Mabel Harris entertained a number of her friends Thursday evening with a Hallowe'en party in honor of her brother, Guy Harris, who recently returned from service in the U. S. Army. The house was decorated for Hallowe'en. The guests enjoyed a very pleasant evening with the games and other amusements which were arranged.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S SOCIETY.

The members of the Young People's Society of the German M. E. church gave a very enjoyable Hallowe'en social at the parsonage Thursday evening. Various Hallowe'en games and amusements were enjoyed. Refreshments were served.

ANNIVERSARY.
